THUGS . . . Taking a beating from two of three escaped convicts who barge into his home is Keith Smith, who portrays Mr. Hilliard in "The Desperate Hours." Al Cappola and Rory Grestle, who play the convicts, work over the father while Ken Bunch, the son, lies helpless on the floor. The action comes from a scene in El Camino College's fall drama, opening tomorrow night at the Campus Theater.

COMEDY SUPREME . . . Warren Lavender as Lord Edgard (center, on floor) is helped to regain his normal position by Sallie Conrad and Jeannie Appel while Warren Dieter and Dennis Morgan look on during a scene from "Thieves' Carnival," a hilarious four-act comedy being presented at Chapel Theatre. Tickets may be reserved at the Box Office, FR 2-9636. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. each weekend through Nov. 16.

Footlight Theatre to Open Season

Casting has been completed and rehearsals are now under way for the opening of Footlight Theatre's first production of the new season.

Iren Conroy leads the cast for a delightful comedy, "The Curious Savage," by John Patrick. The play will open Friday, Nov. 29, for a three-week-end run.

Others in the production include Connie Hauser, Terrance McCabe, Bob VonBargen, Joy Bingham, James O'Donnell, Lois Krieger, Dale Love, Lana Hicks, Dennis Pierce, and Blanche Angus.

"The Curious Savage" is the story of a widow who inherits a fortune of $10 million and is committed to a sanatorium by her stepchildren, hoping she will come to her senses. Mrs. Savage's determination to establish a Happiness Fund leads to some hilarious comedy as she outwits her stepchildren.

Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. and group rates are available. Information about the play can be obtained by calling DA 9-5338.
